

Director of the English edition of Kathimerini

Diplomatic correspondent and columnist of Kathimerini newspaper, and correspondent of ANT1, the Athens News Agency and Deutsche Welle's Greek service in the United States.

He started his involvement in journalism working for the National Herald of New York and ERT, while previously he also collaborated with the newspapers Power and Ta Nea.

He studied Economics and Political Sciences at Boston University, received a Master's degree in International Relations from a special program at Boston University in Paris, and then received a diploma in journalism from New York University.